

Collin Burns, D.D.S.

PEDIATRIC DENTISTRY

Dr. Collin Burns found the perfect career in pediatric dentistry, as it combines his two passions—science and working with kids. He came by his interests naturally, as his mom taught kindergarten, and his dad was a chemical engineer. He joined Pediatric Dentistry of North Texas in 2015 and has been singing his original dental songs to his young patients ever since.

“I love working with kids,” Dr. Burns says. “I have the unique opportunity to shape how they view the rest of their lives in terms of oral health. It’s cool to be there from the beginning in this aspect. I love the opportunity to see a child who has been afraid of the dentist in the past, lose their fear and begin enjoying their dental visits.”

Pediatric Dentistry of North Texas is an established practice with a longtime staff. It has a local, small-town feel where staff members get to know patients and their families through the years. “We see a wide range of patients, from routine checkups to medically complex patients who are referred locally, and as far away as neighboring states,” Dr. Burns says. “We are available 24/7 for emergencies, and patients have my cell number if they need it.”
